By Harry Clifford Brown

Sunstone Press. Paperback. Book Condition: New. This item is printed on demand. Paperback. 304 pages. Henry Kessler wrestles. Not that he particularly likes to, especially when its with one of his best friends mother. Or when he wrestles with notions of how to coax his father out of the Airstream parked in the middle of the desert and back into the family home. Or how to get his fly-fishing classmate Julie to see him as more than just another trout swimming upstream, or how to help Lenny out of going to Vietnam or Greg from self destructing on drugs. And not that he particularly likes wrestling with his own existence either and figuring out where exactly he fits after eighteen years in Grand River. Set in western Colorado, where mountains meet desert--against the backdrop of Vietnam, Nixon versus McGovern, and Jim Morrison and the Doors--this book is a romp, both real and imagined, across one summer after high school graduation. Four friends, four families, and a colorful cast of quirky characters people this poignant story of loss and redemption, from Miss Darling, the fortuneteller who lives in a mud hut on the canal bank by day and travels the stars...
